Dear Dr. Martins,

We would like to deeply thank the support from the Committee for Aid and Education in Neurochemistry and the International Society for Neurochemistry towards the organization of the workshop “Neuroethology and Neurobiology of Memory in the South Cone. A tribute to Héctor Maldonado”, satellite of the XXVIII Annual Meeting of the Argentine Society for Research in Neuroscience. The workshop was exciting and extremely successful not only because the outstanding scientific and academic work presented by outstanding speakers but also because it brought together graduate students and postdoctoral fellows from different universities and research institutes of Argentina and South America, and international professors and neuroscientists.

The satellite generated an ideal atmosphere that promoted rich discussions that covered topics from the principles to the latest advances in neuroethology and neurobiology of memory. Students were not only benefited from direct interactions with the invited speakers, but also from the exchange of ideas and experiences with a community of participants. We are very happy to report that the scientific, academic and social outcomes exceeded the expectations of the Organizing Committee and conferees.

Briefly the workshop “Neuroethology and Neurobiology of Memory in the South Cone. A tribute to Héctor Maldonado” was held in Huerta Grande, Cordoba, from September 30th to October 2th. This natural environment allowed all the conferees to enjoy a very tight scientific program that included 27 speakers on Neuroethology and 16 Neurobiology of Memory. Two sessions of poster presentations was take place with a total number of 106 communications. All graduate students first authors from posters were awarded with travel fellowships provided by the Organizing Committee of the Meeting.
